

India – Fiji Bilateral Brief

Background:

- India-Fiji relations are based on mutual respect, cooperation and strong cultural and people-to-people ties. India's links with Fiji began in 1879 when Indian labourers were taken to Fiji under the indenture system by the British to work on sugar-cane plantations. Between 1879 and 1916, around 60,553 Indians were taken to Fiji. The indenture system was abolished in 1920. In the early 20th century, Indian traders started arriving in Fiji.
- Prior to Fiji's independence in 1970, India had a post of Commissioner since 1948 to look after the interests of people of Indian origin. It was upgraded to High Commissioner after Fiji's independence. High-level visits began since the independence of Fiji which included PM Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara to India (1971) and PM Indira Gandhi to Fiji (1981). Following the 1987 coups, both the High Commission of India and the Indian Cultural Centre in Fiji were closed in May 1990; the High Commission reopened in March 1999, and the Cultural Centre in February 2005. Fiji opened its High Commission in New Delhi in 2004. Fiji's population includes ~300,000 persons of Indian origin (37%) and ~2,300 Indian nationals (2024), mainly in IT, finance, education, healthcare, and hospitality.
- Over the years, as a major development partner of Fiji, India has supported Fiji in its nation building efforts across key sectors and in the area of capacity building.

- Public Sector Undertakings of India in Fiji: Four GOI undertakings, viz, New India Assurance Company Ltd. (since 1954), Life Insurance Corporation of India (since 1956), Bank of Baroda (since 1961), Water and Power Consultancy Services Ltd (Since 2015) are functioning in Fiji.

Development Partnership:

- Development cooperation is a key pillar of India's partnership with Fiji, in areas such as agriculture, capacity building, education, health, IT, MSMEs, clean energy, and HADR. Some of the grant assistance provided is as below:
 - i. Under the US$1.31 million regional Solarisation Project (2020), largely funded by India and implemented in partnership with the UN and the Pacific Islands Development Forum (PIDF), photovoltaic systems were installed at Fiji's State House, the Great Council of Chiefs Meeting Hall, the Kubuna Paramount Chief's residence, and Prime Minister's official residence boosting climate resilience.
 - ii. Through the India-UN Development Partnership Fund, India also supports climate resilience and parametric insurance, while assisting Fiji's sugar industry and youth farming initiatives.
 - iii. India has provided Fiji with medical supplies, vehicles, soil testing labs, children's medicines, ARV drugs, agricultural seeds, and has delivered community projects such as Jaipur Foot camps benefiting thousands of Fijians.

- iv. India established the Mahatma Gandhi Centre of Excellence in IT (2021) at Fiji National University and is helping set up the Sustainable Coastal and Ocean Research Institute (SCORI) at University of South Pacific.
- v. India has been a consistent partner in Fiji's electoral process, providing vehicles and indelible ink for elections since 2014.
- vi. As an early responder, India extended HADR support, notably after Cyclone Winston (2016) and Cyclone Yasa (2020), and supplied 100,000 Covishield vaccines (2021).
- vii. India doubled ITEC slots to 110 after PM Modi's 2014 visit and, at FIPIC-III (2023), announced 1,000 Sagar Amrut Scholarships for Pacific Islands (100 annually for Fiji). Fiji also benefits from 20 ICCR scholarships each year, including those for Indian culture and music.

Health Cooperation:

- Many Fijians travel to India for advanced treatment. Apollo Hospitals Group signed an MoU with Fiji National University in 2013 for training, capacity building and telemedicine, and set up a hub in Suva in 2018; MIOT maintains a small set-up in Suva with visiting specialists. An Agreement on Healthcare Cooperation (2005) continues to guide engagement. In May 2025, an MoU on Pharmacopoeial Cooperation was signed.
- During the FIPIC-III Summit held in Port Moresby in May 2023, PM Shri Narendra Modi announced that India will be establishing a 100-bedded Super Specialty Hospital in Fiji. This hospital will be equipped with trained staff, modern facilities and infrastructure, and it will serve as a lifeline for the entire Pacific region. The project is underway.

Cultural Relations and People-to-People Ties:

- Swami Vivekananda Cultural Centre: Established in 1972 as India's first cultural centre abroad, SVCC offers classes in music, dance, Hindi, and Yoga, and regularly organises cultural programmes and events.
- Hindi Conference: The First Regional Hindi Conference was held in Suva in January 2020, followed by the 12th World Hindi Conference in Nadi in February 2023, inaugurated jointly by the Fijian President and EAM.
